

PROSECUTORS HELPING PROSECUTORS

A PERSONAL APPEAL

Thousands of US-trained prosecutors living in Afghanistan have gone into hiding as they wait on their evacuation applications. Their success in prosecuting criminals and terrorists makes them top Taliban targets.

PROSECUTORS IN DANGER

They cannot live or work openly and have had no income for more than a year. These individuals prosecuted the Taliban for crimes of terrorism, murder, drug trafficking, and rape, resulting in convictions and imprisonment of many in the current regime. Winter is here and food costs have tripled in the last year.

Prosecutors waiting to evacuate have been murdered, tortured, and imprisoned. Children of these prosecutors have starved to death.
